

Out of extreme determination, I drove all the way to Missoula. I tried to admit myself to the emergency room, but was redirected to this walk-in clinic located in the hospital. At the time I feel like I've just finally made it to a highway after being lost in the woods only to have a driver that could have helped me go right on by because I fail to make myself understood. I wanted a full toxicology screen done for poisons especially related to ingredients in Dcon and I wanted an expert hematologist to analyze my blood with a CBC differential. I couldn't explain to the doctor that the "mole" was actually rapidly appearing possibly carcinogenic cells and that yes the blood is related to angiomas. I also couldn't explain to a doctor that thinks you're nuts that you know perfectly well what amnesia means when she wants to patronize you like some uneducated idiot. I was in excruciating pain barely able to function with extreme fatigue and still couldn't get any help. Instead when the hematologist noted 50% atypical lymphocytes and still failed to note the abnormalities of the erythrocytes, I was left with an outrageous bill of excessive charges and still undiagnosed. WHAT DO YOU HAVE TO DO TO FIND COMPETENT HEALTH CARE IN AMERICA?!!!!!!
